

To all my fellow pastel painters out there.

I'm excited to visit Cloudcroft New Mexico. Cloudcroft is a beautiful area.

I am teaching a 5-day studio workshop there August 7 through 11. Five days is a enough time to really get into color and design. We will explore how to set up overcast and sunny scenes and how to set up a painting to create the illusion of depth.

The workshop will start with a demonstration. Each day we will spend time on a different important principle that can help you take your art to another level.

Here are a some of the topics we will cover:

- Creating color harmony.
- Three types of compelling designs.
- The importance of massing shapes.
- Using edges to create the illusion of texture.
- How to choose colors for under-painting.

Using organizational shapes
How to paint water

Lots of ideas techniques and principles.

This workshop is open to oil painter as well.
